A. David Axelrad, M.D., is licensed to practice medicine in the states of Texas and California.

A. David Axelrad, M.D., attended Vanderbilt University from 1961 to 1965, graduating Vanderbilt University with a BA degree. Following graduation from Vanderbilt University, he attended the University of Houston Graduate School from 1965 to 1968. He graduated from the University of Houston Graduate School with an MS degree in biology/physiology (Thesis: Influence of Fasting and Alloxan Diabetes on the Active Transport of Monosaccharides by the Rat Intestine.) He attended The University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston from 1966 to 1970. He was elected into the Alpha Omega Alpha Honorary Medical Society in 1969. He was awarded the MD degree – Magna Cum Laude – in 1970.

A. David Axelrad, M.D., undertook a straight medicine internship at the Sacramento Medical Center of the University of California, Davis, from 1970 to 1971. He attended the University of California, Davis, Department of Psychiatry from 1971 to 1974 and graduated from this residency program in 1974.

Following completion of his straight medicine internship at the Sacramento Medical Center of the University of California, Davis, from 1970 to 1971, he was licensed to practice medicine in the state of Texas. During his training in California, he was also licensed to practice medicine in the state of California. He has maintained both licenses in Texas and California throughout the course of his professional activities.

Following the completion of his training in psychiatry in 1974, he was inducted into the United States Army, and he served in the United States Army with the rank of Major. During the course of his military services, he served as Chief of one of the inpatient services at Walter Reed Army Medical Center in 1974; and he was subsequently transferred to Fort Ord, California, where he was appointed Chief of Mental Hygiene at Fort Ord, California. During the course of his military service, he also served as President of the Sanity Board in the Military Judicial District headquartered at Fort Ord, California, from 1974 until 1976.

A. David Axelrad, M.D., is a practicing psychiatrist who specializes in General Psychiatry, Neuropsychiatry, Psychoanalysis, Hypnosis and Hypnotherapy, Forensic Psychiatry, and Pain Medicine. Dr. Axelrad is Board-certified by the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology in General Psychiatry and the subspecialty of Forensic Psychiatry. Dr. Axelrad has also been certified in the subspecialty of Pain Medicine by the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology, American Board of Anesthesiology, and American Board of Physical Medicine (2003-2013).

A. David Axelrad, M.D., is currently serving as an Associate Professor of Psychiatry in the Menninger Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at Baylor College of Medicine. He has previously served as an Associate Professor of Psychiatry in the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at the University of Texas Medical School at Houston during the time that he has been in practice in Houston, Texas.

A. David Axelrad, M.D., was a Member of the Faculty of the Center for Psychoanalytic Studies in Houston, Texas (formerly Houston-Galveston Psychoanalytic Institute), from 2000 through 2017. During the course of his service at the Center for Psychoanalytic Studies, he has served as the Chairman of the Ethics Committee and the Faculty Committee of the Center for Psychoanalytic Studies (formerly Houston-Galveston Psychoanalytic Institute).

In addition, Dr. Axelrad has also served as an Adjunct Professor of Law at the University of Houston Law Center in Houston, Texas. During the course of his service as an Adjunct Professor of Law at the University of Houston Law Center in Houston, Texas, he directed a seminar in Forensic Psychiatry in the Law from 1984 until 1989 and from 2004 until 2005.

During Dr. Axelrad's career, he has undertaken numerous assessments for alcohol and other chemical dependency. These assessments have also been a part of a drug abuse treatment program that he supervised and monitored during his experiences as a director of pain medicine centers, both inpatient and outpatient centers. During the course of his career, he has also served as the Medical Consultant to the Center for Recovering Families, providing psychiatric consultation and interventions for patients undergoing chemical dependency and alcohol dependency interventions at the Center for Recovering Families in Houston, Texas.

A. David Axelrad, M.D., also served as the Medical Review Officer for the Continental Basketball Association. The scope of his duties as the Medical Review Officer for the Continental Basketball Association included diagnostic assessment interviews of professional basketball players who were employed by the various team owners in the Continental Basketball Association. His scope would include diagnostic assessments of athletes who demonstrated positive tests on drugs screens and other tests administered to the professional athletes playing basketball for the Continental Basketball Association. In addition, he would also interface with various drug treatment programs in referring such professional athletes to the programs for interventions required in the employment agreements between the professional basketball players and team owners in the Continental Basketball Association.

A. David Axelrad, M.D., has also specialized in the psychiatric management of patients who suffer from Posttraumatic Stress Disorders. During his military service at Walter Reed Army Medical Center and Ft. Ord, California, from 1974-1976, he provided medical direction and psychiatric treatment for military personnel suffering from Posttraumatic Stress Disorder as a result of injuries sustained during the Vietnam War.

Over the course of his career since 1976, he has continued to specialize in the treatment of Posttraumatic Stress Disorder. He has also directed programs involving the multidisciplinary treatment of patients suffering from Posttraumatic Stress Disorder.

Over the course of his career since 1976, he has also specialized in the treatment of patients who experience traumatic brain injury. During his practice in California, he served as the Medical Advisor of the Head Injury Support Group in Sacramento, California. Following his move to Houston, Texas, in 1983, he has continued his evaluation and treatment of patients who experience traumatic brain injury.

A. David Axelrad, M.D., is the past President of the Texas Society of Psychiatric Physicians, and he is currently serving as one of three representatives of the Texas Society of Psychiatric Physicians in the Assembly of the American Psychiatric Association. He was awarded with the Distinguished Service Award by the Texas Society of Psychiatric Physicians.

In the past, Dr. Axelrad has served as President of the National Pain Foundation. Prior to his serving as President of the National Pain Foundation, he served the Foundation as the Medical Director.

During the course of Dr. Axelrad's professional activities, he has directed pain medicine centers in California and Texas. During the course of his career, he has also served as the Director of Neuropsychiatric Services in the Del Oro Institute of Rehabilitation in Houston, Texas.

A. David Axelrad, M.D., has previously served as a member of the Division of Medical Quality of the California Board of Medical Examiners, and he has also served as a member of the District Quality Review Committee and a District Quality Review Committee member of the Texas Medical Board.

A. David Axelrad, M.D., served as a member of the Quality System Oversight System of Texas, which was created in the federal class-action lawsuit RAJ v. Jones. This class-action lawsuit resulted in the development of a Quality System Oversight System in Texas, which reviewed State psychiatric hospitals for quality of services and standards of care. Over the course of 10 years, this class-action lawsuit resulted in a significant development of an External Validation Quality Review Team, which reviewed State psychiatric hospitals for quality of services and standards of care until the settlement agreement had achieved significant improvement in the quality of care provided for services for psychiatric patients in the State psychiatric hospitals.

A. David Axelrad, M.D., was one of four psychiatrists to serve in the Quality System Oversight System in Texas as a result of the settlement agreement, which resulted from the federal litigation RAJ v. Jones in the federal court in Dallas, Texas.

Following Dr. Axelrad's service of 10 years in the Quality System Oversight System in Texas, Mr. David Pharis, the Court Monitor for the class-action lawsuit RAJ v. Jones, did edit a textbook, State Hospital Reform – Why Was It So Hard to Accomplish?, published by Carolina Academic Press in 1978, which did address the various experiences of reviewing State psychiatric hospitals in the Quality System Oversight System created by the settlement agreement between the class of patients in the State psychiatric hospitals and the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation. Dr. Axelrad wrote a chapter in this textbook, Chapter 11 – Quality System Oversight, which did describe the Quality System Oversight System that was developed in this class-action lawsuit. It is to be noted that this settlement agreement did result in substantial improvement in the quality of care provided to patients by the State psychiatric hospitals.

A. David Axelrad, M.D., is the Senior Author of the Hypnosis Chapter in the 9th Edition of Kaplan & Sadock's Comprehensive Textbook of Psychiatry edited by Benjamin Sadock, M.D.; Virginia Sadock, M.D.; and Pedro Ruiz, M.D., published in 2009 by Lippincott Williams & Wilkins. The second author of the Hypnosis Chapter is Harold J. Wain, Ph.D., ABPH, Chief, Psychiatry Consultation Liaison Service of the Department of Psychiatry at the Army Medical Center and Professor of the Department of Psychiatry, Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences, Bethesda, Maryland. The third author is Daniel Brown, Ph.D., ABPH, Associate Clinical Professor of Psychology, Harvard Medical School.

Dr. Axelrad, Dr. Wain, and Dr. Brown have authored the Hypnosis Chapter in the 10th Edition of Kaplan & Sadock's Comprehensive Textbook of Psychiatry.

Over the course of Dr. Axelrad's career, he has practiced forensic psychiatry, which has included serving as a forensic psychiatrist in California from 1976 until 1983.

During the course of Dr. Axelrad's practice as a forensic psychiatrist in California, he served on numerous court panels for the purposes of evaluating defendants in areas of both competency to stand trial and criminal responsibility.

During the course of Dr. Axelrad's practice in the state of Texas from 1983 until the present time, he has served on several court panels for the purposes of evaluating defendants for competency to stand trial and to address questions relating to criminal responsibility. Dr. Axelrad has testified in both State courts and Federal courts in areas of both competency to stand trial and criminal responsibility.

In addition to his forensic evaluations of individuals for competency to stand trial and criminal responsibility, Dr. Axelrad also has a forensic practice consisting of the forensic psychiatric consultations and evaluations of patients who experience physical injury or other personal injuries and are involved in litigation concerning their physical and psychiatric injuries.

He has been an expert in cases involving the experiencing of psychiatric disorders as a result of physical or emotional injury and other medical problems.

In addition, Dr. Axelrad has also undertaken evaluations of patients who sustained traumatic brain injury and neurocognitive disorders associated with their traumatic brain injury. During the course of his practice in Houston, Texas, he did undertake forensic psychiatric evaluations of individuals who were injured in the industrial explosions that occurred in the Phillips 66 Chemical Complex in Pasadena, Texas, in 1989; the Deep Water Horizon drill-rig explosion that occurred in the Gulf of Mexico in 2010; and the explosions that occurred in the BP facility in Texas City in 2013.

Further, Dr. Axelrad has also undertaken psychiatric evaluations and consultations concerning patients who are involved in litigation regarding other forensic issues involving family law and evaluations concerning guardianship proceedings, testamentary capacity, and civil competency. Further, he has also served as a Forensic Psychiatrist in litigation and administrative legal proceedings concerning professional liability. Dr. Axelrad has also undertaken forensic psychiatric evaluations of professionals who are experiencing psychiatric or physical impairment that may affect their ability to practice their profession.

During the course of Dr. Axelrad's forensic practice in the state of California, he served as the Director of Forensic Psychiatry Services in the Department of Psychiatry at the University of California at Davis. During the course of his practice in the state of Texas, he served as an Associate Clinical Professor in the Menninger Department of Psychiatry at Baylor College of Medicine and the Department of Psychiatry at The University of Texas Medical School at Houston. During the course of his appointments in both of these academic departments, he has provided forensic psychiatric seminars and hypnosis seminars to residents in the Menninger Department of Psychiatry at Baylor College of Medicine and the Department of Psychiatry at The University of Texas Medical School at Houston.

In addition to this experience, Dr. Axelrad participated with Mr. George Parnham, a criminal defense attorney, in a national webcast CLE program for lawyers in 2012 concerning the latest research developments in brain development, which formed the foundation for the opinion in the Supreme Court case Roper v. Simmons 543U.S. 551.
